

Selected Bibliography of Recent Early Childhood Literature
on Blind/Visually Handicapped
Children

Pamphlet File
Research Library
APH

American Printing House for the Blind

October 1987

SM/SW/KP

- Als, H. (1983). Assessment, intervention, and remediation: The study of the development of a blind infant in interaction with her mother. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (eds), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 27-32). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Anderson, D. W., & Fisher, K. P. (1986). Nominal realism in congenitally blind children. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 896-900.
- Anderson, E. S., Dunlea, A., & Kekelis, L. S. (1984). Blind children's language: Resolving some differences. Journal of Child Language, 11, 645-664.
- Barraga, N. (1983). Vision utilization: A way to become everything I can be. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 80-82). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Bigelow, A. E. (1986). The development of reaching in blind children. British Journal of Development Psychology, 4, 355-366.
- Blind Children's Center. (1985). Talk to me II: Common concerns. Los Angeles: Author. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 261 490).
- Blind Children's Center. (1986). Move with me: A guide to movement development. Los Angeles: Author.
- Bortner, S. (1983). The sensory stimulation kit: New materials for infant multihandicapped and preschool visually impaired children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (p. 115). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Breen, P. F. (1986). The use of exophora and anaphora in mother-blind child dyads: A comparative study of sighted and blind preschoolers. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 2115A.
- Bremer, D. A. Parent-infant communication: Strategies and routines with sensory impaired and sensory intact infants. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 858A.
- Bremer, D. C., & Franklin, B. (1984). Mother-infant communication: strategies and routines with sensory intact, hearing impaired and visually impaired infants. San Francisco: San Francisco State University, California Department of Special Education. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 254 966).

- Brown, D. E. (1983). One step at a time: Independence and self-help for the young blind child. In M.E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 51-57). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Carpenter, P. (1983). How to start a parent group. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 90-93). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Chase, K. (1986). Parents as teachers: Preschool Apple/Echo software useable by visually impaired parents and their children. In M. Gergen (Ed.), Computer technology for the handicapped: Applications '85: Selected proceedings of Closing the Gap's 1985 National Conference (pp. 131-134). Hutchinson, MN: Crow River Press.
- Cheadle, B. (Ed.), (1985). Future Reflections. Baltimore, MD: National Federation of the Blind.
- Cheadle, B. (1985). Role models, parents, blind children, and the National Federation of the Blind. Braille Monitor, July, 330-334.
- Chernus-Mansfield, N., Hayashi, D., & Kekelis, L. (1985). Talk to me II: Common concerns. Los Angeles: The Blind Children's Center.
- Church, B. (1983). The whole human being. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 5-6). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Corn, A. L. (1985). An independence matrix for visually handicapped learners. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 17, 3-10.
- Correa, V. I., Poulson, C. L., & Salzberg, C. L. (1984). Training and generalization of reach-grasp behavior in blind, retarded young children. Journal of Applied Behavior Analysis, 17, 57-69.
- Cranston, R. (1982). Parenting without vision in 1000 easy lessons. Berkeley, CA: Bananas, Inc., Child Care Information and Referral Service, American Red Cross. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 250 843).
- Cratty, B. J. (1983). Concept development. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 32-35). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Cress, P. (1984). Vision care for the preschool child with handicaps. Topics in Early Childhood Special Education, 3, 41-51.

- Cuthbertson, D., & Urban, J. V. (1984). Project Outreach U.S.A.: Infant toddler, birth-3 (blind or visually impaired): Program report, July 1, 1983 to September 30, 1984. West Newtown, MA: International Institute for Visually Impaired. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 254 991)
- Davidson, I. F., Nesker, W. K., & Simmons, J. (1984). Mediation the environment for young blind children: A conceptualization. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 251-255.
- DeGrella, L. H., & Green, V. P. (1984). Young children's attitudes toward orthopedic and sensory disabilities. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 3-11.
- Davis, P. A. (1984). Helping the visually impaired child succeed in school. Exceptional Parents, 14(5), 35-38.
- De Nike, J. (1983). What is a good parent program? In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 93-94). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Division for Handicapped Children and Pupil Service. (1985). Visual impairment education in Wisconsin--Outreach services: Bulletin No. 5376. Madison, WI: Wisconsin State Department of Public Instruction. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 265 730)
- Erickson, W. (1986). In brief. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 706, 708, 710.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1984). Early years action plan. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 56-57.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1984). Parenting preschoolers: Suggestions for raising young blind and visually impaired children. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1984). A second look at sensory aids in early childhood. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 83-101.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1984). Visual perceptual performance of visually handicapped infants with and without the use of binaural sensory aids. Dissertation Abstracts International, 44(8), 2437A.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1985). Parents as partners and advocates. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 203-204.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1985). Purpose in our doing: Understanding the reasons behind our activities. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 164-166.

- Ferrell, K. A. (1985). Reach out and teach: Meeting the training needs of parents of visually multiply handicapped young children: Parent handbook and reachbook. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Ferrell, K. A. (1986). Gramm-Rudman-Hollings: Effects on blind and visually impaired infants, children, and youth. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 758, 760.
- Ferrell, K. A., & Penland, F. S. (1983). Every kid counts. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 102-103). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Fletcher, J. (1983). A Canadian research project. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 116-117). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Frere, S. (1983). Light box activity guide: Level I. Louisville, KY: American Printing House for the Blind.
- Frere, S. (1984). Comprehensive programs for the visually handicapped: Low vision training materials from the American Printing House for the Blind. Louisville, KY: American Printing House for the Blind.
- Gardner, L., Morse, A. R., Tulloch, D., & Trief, E. (1986). Visual impairment among children from birth to age five. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 535-538.
- Garwood, S. G., & Fewell, R. R. (Eds.). (1983). Educating handicapped infants: Issues in development and intervention. Rockville, MD: Aspen Publications.
- Gelb, S. A. (1985). Stranger responses to visually impaired infants: Sequence and content. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 244-247.
- Glass, P., et. al. (1985). Effect of bright light in the hospital nursery on the incidence of retinopathy of prematurity. New England Journal of Medicine, 313, 401-404.
- Gleason, D. (1984). Auditory assessment of visually impaired preschoolers: A team effort. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 102-113.
- Greenberg, R., & Field, T. (1984). Temperament ratings of handicapped infants during classroom, mother, and teacher interactions. Annual Progress in Child Psychiatry and Child Development, 363-382.

- Hall, A., et al. (1984). Identifying developmental patterns of normal and high risk visually impaired infants: Development of an assessment protocol. Berkeley, CA: University of California, Center for the Study of Visual Impairment. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 254 054).
- Harrell, L. J. (1983). From crib to kindergarten: A continuum of needs of the visually impaired preschooler. Reston, VA: ERIC Clearinghouse on Handicapped and Gifted Children. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 249 697).
- Harrell, L. J. (1983). The visually impaired preschooler with an emphasis on medical intervention. Reston, VA: ERIC Clearinghouse on Handicapped and Gifted Children. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 249 698).
- Harrell, L. (1984). I can do it with exposure, experience, expectations, and enjoyment. In A. M. Sykanda et al (Eds.), Insight in Sight: Proceedings of the Canadian Interdisciplinary Conference on the Visually Impaired Child. 5th, Vancouver, British Columbia, October 18-20, 1984). Vancouver, British.
- Harrell, L. J. (1984). Touch the baby: Blind and visually impaired children as patients: Helping them respond to care. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Harris, L., Humphrey, G. K., Muir, D. M., & Dodwell, P. C. (1985). Use of the Canterbury Child's Aid in infancy and early childhood: A case study. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 4-11.
- Hart, V. (1983). Motor development in blind children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 74-79). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Hart, V. (1984). Research as a basis for assessment and curriculum development for visually impaired infants. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 314-318.
- Hart, V., & Ferrell, K. (1983). Effects of binaural sensory aids on the development of visual perceptual abilities in visually handicapped infants: Final report. Pittsburgh, PA: Pittsburgh University. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 246 639).
- Hatwell, Y. (1984). Piagetian reasoning and the blind. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Hendrickson, J. M., Gable, R. A., Hester, P., & Strain, P. S. (1985). Teaching social reciprocity: Social exchanges between young severely handicapped and nonhandicapped children. Pointer, 29(4), 17-21.

- Hill, A. E., et al. (1986). The Liverpool Visual Assessment Team: Ten years experience. Child Care, Health, and Development, 12, 37-51.
- Hill, E. W., Rosen, S., Correa, V. I., & Langley, M. B. (1984). Preschool orientation and mobility: An expanded definition. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 58-72.
- Hull, W. (1983). Social development of preschool visually handicapped children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 47-50). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Izotova, V. S. (1982). Imagery and interest in inorganic nature in blind preschool children. Defekologiya, 1, 46-50.
- Jackson, R. M. (1983). The importance of perceptual activity in the development of visually handicapped infants and preschoolers. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 63-74). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Jastrzemska, Z. (1984). Resources for parents and professionals working with visually handicapped preschoolers. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 115-134.
- Jensen, R. A. (1983). The biological origin of parent-child love. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 85-87). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Jensen, V. A. (1984). Catching. London: Collins.
- Johnson-Martin, N., Jens, K. G., & Attermeier, S. M. (1985). The Carolina curriculum for handicapped infants and infants at risk. Baltimore: Paul H. Brooks Publishing Co.
- Jose, R. T., & Shane, K. (1983). Vision stimulation at Upsal Day School. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 111-115). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Juurmaa, J. (1984). The riddle of the rate of mental development in the congenitally blind: Cognitive and emotional aspects. Jyvaskyla Studies in Education, Psychology & Social Research, 54, 70-84.
- Kay, L. (1984). Acoustic coupling to the ears in binaural sensory aids. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 12-16.

- Kennedy, J. M., & Domander, R. (1986). Posture of twig figures: Reactions by the blind and the sighted. International Journal of Rehabilitation Research, 9, 63-66.
- Kitzinger, M. (1984). The role of repeated and echoed utterances in communication with a blind child. British Journal of Disorders of Communication, 19, 135-146.
- Klineman, J. G. (1983). Early intervention with visually impaired infants and preschoolers. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 103-104). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Kronheim, J. K. (1985). Home-grown toys: The learning pillows. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 158-159.
- Ladyka, J., Lonergan, M., Moore, L., Hyman, N., & Cutter, J. (1983). Preschool services. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 98-100). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Landau, B., & Gleitman, L. (1985). Language and experience: Evidence from the blind child. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press.
- Lang, M. A. (1983). An interdisciplinary program model. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 104-106). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Lockman, J. J. (1986). Perceptuomotor coordination in sighted infants: Implications for visually impaired children. Topics in Early Childhood Special Education, 6(3), 23-36.
- Lucas, S. A. (1984). Auditory discrimination and speech production in the blind child. International Journal of Rehabilitation Research, 7, 74-76.
- Lukoshevichene, A. L. (1985). On semantic characteristics of speech of visually impaired preschoolers. Defektologiya, 6, 62-67.
- Maron, S. (1983). Camp challenge. In M. E. Mulholland & W. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (p. 109). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Matsuda, M. M. (1985). Facilitating the language acquisition skill of blind infants. Journal of Visual Impairment and Blindness, 79, 111-112.

- McGarry, B. (1983). Helping the preschool handicapped child: U.S. government programs. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 20-23). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Megivern, K. (1986). A surprise victory for education of the handicapped. Braille Forum, 25(3), 19-20.
- Miller, D. D. (1985). Reading comes naturally: A mother and her blind child's experiences. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 1-4.
- Moore, S. (1984). The need for programs and services for visually handicapped infants. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 16, 48-57.
- Moore, S. B. (1984). A home-based media approach for developing critical skills in young visually impaired children: Final report. Louisville, KY: American Printing House for the Blind. (ERIC Document Reproduction Services No. ED 248 622).
- Moore, S., Bensinger, S. G., & Frere, S. J. (1985). Beginnings: A practical guide for parents and teachers of visually impaired babies. Louisville, KY: American Printing House for the Blind.
- Moore, S. Bensinger, S. G., Frere, S. J., & Dennison, A. L. (1984). Bright sights: Learning to see. Louisville, KY: American Printing House for the Blind.
- Morse, A. R., & Trief, E. (1985). Diagnosis and evaluation of visual dysfunction in premature infants with low birth weight. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 79, 248-251.
- Morse, M. T. The MICE project: An innovative service delivery system for visually handicapped children. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 77, 52-55.
- Mulholland, M. E., & Wurster, M. V. (Eds.). (1983). Help me become everything I can be: Proceedings North American Conference on Visually Handicapped Infants and Preschool Children: Minneapolis: May 22-25, 1978. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Nelson, K. Brown, G. C., & Arentsen, J. (1985). Recognizing patterns of ocular childhood diseases. Thorofare, NJ: Slack.
- Nordic Committee on Disability. (1985). The more we do together: Adapting the environment for children with disabilities. New York: World Rehabilitation Fund.

- Padula, W. V. (1983). Vision and its influence on development of the visually impaired child. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 109-110). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Palazesl, M. A. (1986). The efficacy of a movement intervention curriculum for young visually impaired children. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 566A.
- Palazesl, M. A. (1986). The need for motor development programs for visually impaired preschoolers. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 573-576.
- Parson, S. (1985). The performance of low-vision children on the Preschool Language Scale. Education of the Visually Handicapped, 17, 117-125.
- Parsons, S. (1986). Function of play in low-vision children (part 1): A review of the research and literature. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 627-630.
- Parsons, S. (1986). Function of play in low-vision children (part 2): Emerging patterns of behavior. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 777-784.
- Pediatric Projects, Inc. (1985). Catalog of toys and books. Santa Monica, CA: Author.
- Przybocki, M., & Miller, S. A. (Eds.). (1984). Toys for special children. Lansing, MI: PAM Assistance Centre. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 253 041).
- Randall, K. (1984). Contact lenses for infants after congenital cataract surgery. Sightsaving, 53(1), 8-13.
- Randall, K. A. (1985). Taking your child to the ophthalmologist: What every parent needs to know. Sightsaving, 53(3), 6-9.
- Randall, R. M. (1985). Taking toys to court. Sightsaving, 53(3), 10-13.
- Raver, S. (1984). Modification of head droop during conversation in a 3-year-old visually impaired child; a case study. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 307-310.
- Raynor, S. (1983). The challenge. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 122-124). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Rogers, S. J., & Puchalski, C. B. (1984). Development of symbolic play in visually impaired young children. Topics in Early Childhood Special Education, 3, 57-63.

- Rogers, S. J., & Puchalski, C. B. (1984). Social characteristics of visually impaired infants' play. Topics in Early Childhood Special Education, 3, 52-56.
- Rogers, S. J., & Puchalski, C. B. (1986). Social smiles of visually impaired infants. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 863-865.
- Rogow, S. M. (1983). Language development in blind children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 57-63). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Rogow, S. M. (1984, April). Intention, interaction and language development in blind and visually impaired developmentally delayed young children. Paper presented at the Annual Convention of the Council for Exceptional Children, Washington, D.C. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 246 628).
- Rogow, S. M. (1984). The uses of social routines to facilitate communication in visually impaired and multihandicapped children. Topics in Early Childhood Special Education, 3, 64-70.
- Rowland, C. (1984). Preverbal communication of blind infants and their mothers. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 78, 297-302.
- Schroeder, F. (1986). Growing up with independence: The blind child's use of the white cane. Braille Monitor, December, 657-661.
- Schuster, C. S. (1986). Sex education of the visually impaired child. The role of parents. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 675-680.
- Schwartz, M. (1984). The role of sound for space and object perception in the congenitally blind infant. Advances in Infancy Research, 3, 23-56.
- Scott, E. (1983). The Canadian scene. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (p. 97). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Scott, E. P. (Eds.). (1985). Can't your child see? A guide for parents of visually impaired children, (2nd ed.). Austin, TX: PRO-ED.
- Simmons, J. N., & Davidson, I. F. (1985). Mediating the environment: A case study approach. Child Care, Health and Development, 11(4), 195-207.

- Simmons, J. N., & Davidson, I. F. (1985). Perspectives on intervention with young blind children. Child Care, Health and Development, 11(4), 183-193.
- Simmons, V., * Brown, D. E. (1983). The Oregon project for visually impaired and blind preschool children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 115-116). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Sokolow, A. (1983). Differences in play and language development in a pair of blind and sighted twin infants. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 117-122). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Sonksen, P. M., Levitt, S., & Kittsinger, M. (1984). Identification of constraints acting on motor development in young visually disabled children and principles of remediation. Child Care, Health, and Development, 10(5), 273-286.
- Spellman, C. R., et al. (1982). Research and development of subjective visual acuity procedures for handicapped preschool children: Final Report. Lawrence, KS: Kansas University, Bureau of Child Research. (ERIC Document Reproduction Service No. ED 246 643).
- Spungin, S. J., Silver, N., Davidson, C., & Luxton, K. (1983). Parents and advocates speak out: Panel discussion. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 87-80). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Stephens, B. (Ed.). (1985). Piagetian reasoning and the blind. New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Swallow, R., & Poulsen, M. K. (1983). Cognitive development of young visually handicapped children. In M. E. Mulholland & M. V. Wurster (Eds.), Help me become everything I can be (pp. 36-46). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Tait, P. E., & Wolfgang, C. (1984). Mainstreaming a blind child: Problems perceived in a preschool day care program. Early Child Development and Care, 13, 155-167.
- Taylor-Hershel, E., & Webster, R. (1983). Mainstreaming: A case in point. Childhood Education, 59I, 155-167.
- Urban, J. V. (1985). Working together . . . to help blind babies. DVH Quarterly, 30(1), 6-9.
- Urwin, C. (1984). Language for absent things: Learning from visually handicapped children. Topics in Language Disorders, 4(4), 24-37.

- Warren, D. H. (1984). Blindness and early childhood development (2nd ed., rev.). New York: American Foundation for the Blind.
- Welsch, M. J. (1985). A descriptive study of visual behaviors of children with Down Syndrome. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 504A.
- Werth, L. H. (1984). Synchrony of cueing modalities: Communicative competence between the mother and blind infant. Early Child Development and Care, 18(1-2), 53-60.
- White, C. (Ed.). (1985). Foundation focus. Scottsdale, AZ: The Foundation for Blind Children.
- Wilson, R. B. (1985). The emergence of the semantics of tense and aspect in the language of a visually impaired child. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 522A.
- Workman, S. H. (1986). Teachers' verbalizations and the social interaction of blind preschoolers. Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness, 80, 532-534.
- Zegers, H. (1981). Touch toys and how to make them--especially designed for the visually handicapped but also safe and suitable for all. Washington, D.C.: Touch Toys.
- Zimmerman, G. A. (1985). An exploratory study of preferred textures of objects for visually handicapped infants and young children. Dissertation Abstracts International, 47, 871A.

